

CrowdStrike Achieves New ISO 27001 Certification, Reinforcing Commitment to World-Class Information Security Management

October 29, 2024

AUSTIN, Texas--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Oct. 29, 2024-- CrowdStrike (NASDAQ: CRWD) today announced it has received new ISO/IEC 27001:2022 certification for products made generally available in the past year – CrowdStrike Falcon® Next-Gen SIEM, CrowdStrike® Charlotte AI™ and CrowdStrike Falcon® for IT, extending the list of certified modules and services on the CrowdStrike Falcon® cybersecurity platform. This certification demonstrates CrowdStrike's ongoing dedication to protecting the security and privacy of customer and organizational data by meeting the most rigorous international standards.

ISO 27001 is the most recognized global framework for implementing, maintaining and continuously improving an information security management system (ISMS). This certification acknowledges CrowdStrike's systematic approach to managing sensitive data, including robust measures in areas such as risk management, data protection and governance.

"Our latest ISO 27001 certification is a testament to our ongoing commitment to upholding the highest information security management standards," said Justin Acquaro, chief information officer, CrowdStrike. "As CrowdStrike continues to advance the industry's leading AI-native cybersecurity platform to stop evolving threats, customers can trust that we follow stringent practices and protocols to keep organizational information safe."

The ISO 27001 certification was awarded after an extensive audit process conducted by an independent, accredited certification body. It includes comprehensive assessments of CrowdStrike's policies, procedures and controls related to data management and security.
